

Program Educational Objectives: MSc DAN

- To train and produce postgraduates in the field of Dietetics and Nutrition who are recognized for their practical and public health skills.
- To well acquaint these postgraduates with the expanding frontiers and ever increasing demands of advanced clinical nutrition, understand the basis of nutritional status assessment, biochemical basis of nutrition, nutrition related disorders, role of nutrition in therapeutic diets.
- The course also aims at learning skills of menu planning for quality and quantity preparation and management of resources.
- The students will also learn about the new and expanding areas of research in the field of dietetics and nutrition and acquire necessary research oriented skills.